1. Strive to do no harm. If you do harm, attempt to correct it.
2. Strive to prevent harm. If you cannot prevent it, attempt to reduce it.
3. Strive to improve upon the collective experience. If you cannot improve upon it, do not worsen it.

Wish for your neighbor that which you wish for yourself.

What you expect to receive, you must first give.

Any person dedicated to not causing harm should be welcomed into community regardless of gender identity, sexual orientation, disability, ethnicity, color, religion, age, socioeconomic status, employment, national origin, language, appearance, caste, or class.

The world exists as a trinary.
Temperature is not only Hot or Cold; it is also Warm. So it is with all things. We need not exist as Us or Them. We can be Together.

The earth has freely given all we need for survival.
The gifts that all beings earn by right of birth are:

The right to clean air
The right to clean water
The right to sustenance
The right to shelter
The right to sanitary waste disposal
The right to community care

Every individual has ownership of their own person and right to self determination, assuming those choices cause no harm.

Choose facts over feelings, regardless of the strength of the feeling or the fear of the fact.

Admitting that you are wrong is an act of courage, not a weakness.

How are your feelings about the information affecting your beliefs and most importantly-

PRECEPTS

One must care for oneself when caring for others. We do so through Appreciation, Creation, and Reflection.

Any day that holds special meaning to the observer should be celebrated. Whenever people join together in celebration it is a holiday. Repeating that celebration over time makes it a tradition.

Death is a natural process and the final step in one's life. It is not to be feared but accepted.

The future belongs to the children. As a collective we have the responsibility to give them their future as a gift and not a burden.

The United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights and United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child are touchstones for the rights to be accorded to all.

Technology that is not known to be an enhancement to oneself or the collective needs to be eliminated from one's life.

One is privileged when they have less of an obstacle to a specific struggle. Every person has privilege over someone.

Reality is a series of struggles. The less struggles a person has the more they risk losing touch with reality.
